Beaver County artists release new songs

The Little Drummer Boy got to show off his musical skills.

Though Frosty The Snowman really put the thumpety thump thump in Christmas carols.

California's most Beaver County-ish band, The Forty Nineteens, does Frosty justice with their garage-rock romp through the timeless holiday tune about the jolly soul with a corn cob pipe and button nose.

New Jersey Garage-rock aficionado's Bongo Boy Records will feature The Forty Nineteen's "Frosty the Snowman" as a single for the New Jersey label's annual Christmas compilation "Have a Rocking Christmas." BongoBoyRecords.com

Bongo Boy Records will also put out a "Best of Garage Vol. 3" compilation that will include the Forty Nineteens' original song "I'm Free." Seems that Bruce Springsteen's longtime guitarist is the Forty Nineteens' most famous fan, having earlier this year bestowed "I'm Free" with his weekly "Coolest Song in the World" honors. Beginning Friday, you can visit undergroundgarage.com to vote for "I'm Free" as Underground Radio's "Song of the Year." Enter to win an all inclusive trip to Hard Rock Punta Cana Dominican Republic.

Winning would be a nice honor for a band that's played shows the past four years in Monaca, New Brighton, Rochester, Center Township and Chippewa Township. Zeigler looks to book a 2017 show at Whiskey Rhythm in Monaca.

Meanwhile, his band's "Frosty" is available for 99 cents at iTunes and Cdbaby.com, with the Bongo Boy compilation out Nov. 29.

Of all the Christmas carols, Zeigler said the Forty Nineteens unanimously chose to salute Frosty because he's a cool anti-hero who teaches adults valuable lessons about Christmas and belief.

"We recorded 'Frosty' in the spirit of the Spector Wall of Sound. We had fun with the intro and outro by tipping our hat to Ronnie Spector's 'Be My Little Baby' with a little bit of The Silhouettes' 'Get a Job' in there for fun," Zeigler said.
